J.P. Morgan Securities LLC

- EUR/USD surged from the Nov-Feb base pattern to medium-term targets at 1.0804-1.09. We suspect the pair can consolidate near that resistance. Short-term support rests at the 1.0722 200-day moving average, with key medium-term support now at the 1.05-1.06 base breakout zone
- Cable reaccelerates through the 1.2767-1.2811 resistance zone and meets the 1.2924 Sep 61.8% retrace. Other nearby resistance rests at the 1.303 Dec-Feb pattern objective. We suspect the move can decelerate and pause near that resistance. Near-term support rests at the 1.279 200-day moving average with key medium-term support at the 1.24-1.26 base breakout zone
- USD/JPY struggles to find its footing despite bullish momentum divergence signals that triggered as the decline decelerates at 146.95-148.86 support. We still think the pair can rebound from that support over the near-term and trade into a range. Key short-term resistance rests at 151.30-152.27
- AUD/USD still looks like a potential medium-term base pattern, but the pair needs to clear resistance near 0.64 before a bottom can be confirmed. Short-term support rests at the 0.6265 50-day moving average and 0.6157-0.6211 Fibonacci retracement levels

Figure 1: After fading at the mid-February breakdown resistance zone, the US dollar has fallen into the first key medium-term support zone. Even if the Dec-Mar price action proves to be a more lasting top pattern, we suspect the dollar can consolidate at that support zone over the near-term.

EUR/USD immediate tags medium-term chart objectives after Nov-Feb base breakout

EUR/USD saw an almost immediate jump to medium-term targets associated with the Nov-Feb base pattern after this week's headline-induced breakout (Figure 2). That base formation has driven our medium-term outlook in recent months, which favored an eventual upside breakout and mean reversion of the Sep-Dec slide. We've also viewed the 1.0804 Sep 61.8% retrace and 1.085 violated Oct 2023 pattern trend line as initial targets for a breakout. Also note the 1.09 Nov-Feb base pattern measured move objective and 1.0984 Sep 78.6% retrace as other levels. While there is no sign of it yet, we think the trend will decelerate and experience a period of consolidation near those resistance levels into the springtime. Look to the 1.0723 200-day moving average as a near-term support parameter. Once as short-term top comes into view, we will be able to provide Fibonacci retracement levels as well that can act as support for the expected period of consolidation. Bigger picture, the medium-term EUR/USD bull trend stays firmly intact provided the pair holds the 1.05-1.06 breakout zone. Longer-term range resistance remains in place at the 1.1214 Sep 2024 peak, 1.1271 Jan 2021 61.8% retrace, and 1.1276 Jul 2023 peak.

Figure 2: EUR/USD surged from the Nov-Feb base pattern to medium-term targets at 1.0804-1.09. We suspect the pair can consolidate near that resistance. Short-term support rests at the 1.0722 200-day moving average, with key medium-term support now at the 1.05-1.06 base breakout zone.

Cable pushes through resistance near 1.28 as it tracks the EUR advance for now

Despite the initial signs that the cable rally was fading near our 1.2767-1.2811 favored resistance zone, the subsequent weakness from that resistance held the Dec-Feb breakout zone (1.255-1.2607) to keep the bullish momentum in gear into this week. Cable then re-accelerated with EUR/USD on the German headlines and has since similarly rallied into the Sep 61.8% retrace at 1.2924 (Figure 3). While the EUR/GBP cross still looks like a potential base pattern in the lower-end of multi-year range, the absence of an impulsive breakout on that chart leaves our cable technical view similar to EUR/USD for now. We suspect the rally can decelerate near current levels and the 1.303 Dec-Feb pattern measured move objective, but there is no sign of that just yet. Look to the 1.279 200-day moving average as short-term support and to the 1.24-1.26 breakout zone as a medium-term floor for the pair over the medium-term. On the upside, next resistance rests at the 1.315 Sep 78.6% retrace, ahead of the 1.3436 Sep peak.

Figure 3: Cable reaccelerates through the 1.2767-1.2811 resistance zone and meets the 1.2924 Sep 61.8% retrace. Other nearby resistance rests at the 1.303 Dec-Feb pattern objective. We suspect the move can decelerate and pause near that resistance. Near-term support rests at the 1.279 200-day moving average with key medium-term support at the 1.24-1.26 base breakout zone.

USD/JPY triggers tactical buy signal as it bounces from 148.65-149.23 support

USD/JPY struggles to find its footing despite the cluster of short-term buy signals that triggered recently, as the market continues to grind lower into the 146.95-148.86 support zone (Figure 4). That support includes the Jan-Feb equal swings objective, Jan channel, and Sep 61.8% retrace. It also roughly aligns with the 4Q24 pattern breakout zone. We continue to think that zone will define the lower-end of a new trading range. Initial resistance within that range rests at 151.30-152.27. the 200-day moving average, Jan channel, Mar 3 rebound high, and Dec-Feb internal trend line all sit in that confluence. Other resistance rests at the 153.77 50-day moving average. Once a clear short-term bottom develops, we can also provide Fibonacci retracement levels to post up against as potential range resistance. On the downside, an unexpected re-acceleration lower would turn our attention to the 143.71 Sep 78.6% retrace and key longer-term support near 140.

Figure 4: USD/JPY struggles to find its footing despite bullish momentum divergence signals that triggered as the decline decelerates at 146.95-148.86 support. We still think the pair can rebound from that support over the near-term and trade into a range. Key short-term resistance rests at 151.30-152.27.

AUD/USD whipsaws back into the Dec-Feb base pattern and sidelines the developing bullish technical outlook

AUD/USD continues to carve out what looks like a multi-month base pattern below key resistance at 0.64 and after the Sep-Dec slide first approached the 0.617 Oct 2022 range low (Figure 5). Within the current pattern, short term support rests at the rests at the 0.6211 Feb 61.8% retrace and 0.6157 Feb 78.6% retrace. We suspect a break above the 0.6405 Oct 2022 internal trend line and 0.6414 Sep 38.2% retrace would likely bring in a lot of momentum buying, as copper futures and the copper/gold ratio are also basing and pressing base pattern resistance. All of the above have some correlation to the global manufacturing data and many other markets that track that data have already broken out of their respective base patterns. Initial breakout resistance rests at the 0.6515 Sep 50% retrace, 0.652 Dec-Feb initial pattern objective, and 0.653 200-day moving average. Next is the 0.6616 Sep 61.8% retrace and 0.6759 78.6% retrace.

Figure 5: AUD/USD still looks like a potential medium-term base pattern, but the pair needs to clear resistance near 0.64 before a bottom can be confirmed. Short-term support rests at the 0.6265 50-day moving average and 0.6157-0.6211 Fibonacci retracement levels.

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:
J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com.
