

Coca-Cola

Continues to Stand Out vs. Peers with Volume Growth & Upside to Estimates; Model Update Post-2Q24

We are updating our estimates for The Coca-Cola Company (KO, OW rated) following the company's 1Q24 earnings results (link to our first reaction note), conference call, and our follow-up group conversation with Robin Halpern, VP & Head of IR. KO shares outperformed post-earnings (KO +0.3% vs. multinational peers -1.1% and XLP -0.4%) and continued outperformance vs. peers YTD (YTD into earnings KO +9.9% vs. multinational peers +3.6% and XLP +8.5%) as we believe the company continues to justify relative premium valuation with fundamentals materially better vs. average CPG (solid path to generating +LSD% volume growth driven by D&E markets with resilient Developed market trends, sustainable "earned" price/mix enabled by top-tier marketing/innovation, underlying margin expansion). We also continue to see upside to estimates (we detail more below), which should sustain (or expand) wider valuation premium to peers. That said, despite outperformance YTD, relative to MNC peers the company's relative valuation is only a bit higher than its longer-term historical average (8.5% premium vs. 5-year average 5.3%). While the relative valuation vs. PEP is high — now ~12% premium vs. 5-year average ~1% — we believe a wider spread will remain until there is better visibility on stabilization/inflection in U.S. snacking trends. Moreover, KO relative valuation on NTM P/E vs. SPX remains well below historical averages (~5% premium vs. 2-/5-year average >20%). Our Dec 2025 target price remains unchanged at $72 based on 22.4x P/E multiple (two-year average) on our 2026E EPS.

- Strong Underlying Performance (Ex-Shipment Timing Benefit) With Positive Volumes (Differentiator in Staples These Days) — Building Blocks to Raised Guidance Could be Conservative. OSG of +15% was very strong (+6% concentrate shipments +9% price/mix) and even stripping away shipment timing benefit (4 points) would have left "underlying" OSG at +11% - ahead of JPMe Street-high estimate of +10.7% and Consensus Metrix +9.7%. Breaking it down further, with pricing in intense inflationary markets 5 points benefit, the +2% unit cases and +4% "underlying" price/mix would leave OSG at the high-end of company's LT algorithm (+4-6%).

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising, and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the US, shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2025 price target is $72, based on 22.4x P/E (two-year average multiple) on our 2026 estimates as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop are partially mitigated by the ongoing unfavorable FX outlook, GLP-1 concerns, potential tax liability, and rate environment. Our $72 price target implies ~11% upside in the next approximately 178 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

- Building Blocks to Raised OSG Guidance Could be Conservative. Looking ahead, the company's raised +9-10% OSG guidance (from +8-9% before) implies 2H24 OSG +5-7% by our math (vs. 1H24 +13%), which seems a bit conservative to us. First, we're encouraged that unit case volume performance improved sequentially to +2% despite some headwinds (e.g., away-from-home softer and unfavorable weather in U.S./W. Europe, China soft macro, Middle East conflict) as there were also some positive tailwinds (e.g., India rebound, strong Mexico/Brazil, value add dairy/juice growth in U.S.) and importantly we expect some of the headwind to abate/get better (e.g., weather has been more favorable in 3Q, QSR value messaging could be showing early signs of improvement, strong sports programming calendar) and comparisons remain benign (lapping 2H23 unit cases +2% and 4Y CAGR +1.8%). Second, from a concentrate shipment perspective we do not expect a full reversal of the 2Q benefit (4 points) in 2H24 — year-to-date unit case volumes are running in-line with concentrate shipments and management guided to full-year concentrate shipments and unit cases in-line with each other; as such, with two additional calendar days in 4Q24 (benefit to concentrate shipments), we would expect 2H24 as a whole to be largely neutral from a shipment/unit case volume perspective (i.e., 3Q24 headwind may be only ~2 points). Third, on price/mix — the 5 points of underlying pricing benefit (mix was largely neutral in 2Q24) should be sticky and continue to benefit remainder of the year, and while intense inflation abates by 4Q, we believe there is still likely some impact in 3Q24; moreover, we wouldn't be surprised to see some potential mix benefit if finished goods in the U.S. continues to perform well (e.g., fairlife, juices) and away-from-home sees some improvement as consumers migrate to QSRs (trade down beneficiaries) where KO has higher market share. Putting it all together, assuming unit case volumes remain c.2% and concentrate shipment timing is largely a wash in 2H24, guidance would leave +3-5% price/mix as the bogey for 2H24 and as such the high-end seems readily achievable given underlying pricing benefit even assuming no further intense inflation impact or mix benefit for the remainder of the year.
- Continued Solid Margin Delivery, Should Continue but More Weighted to 4Q. Gross margins expanded around +200 bps to 61.4% in 2Q and were ahead of the Street by about 80 bps. Underlying expansion accounted to ~130 bps (organic driven volumes and pricing, and segment mix tailwind, partially offset by commodities) while FX was a -80 bps headwind and bottler refranchising a 160 bps tailwind. Based on our conversations, we believe the concentrate shipment timing benefit was a roughly 30-40 bps tailwind to gross margins in the quarter. Looking ahead CFO Murphy noted "... I would say the overall trends in the second half of the year would be similar to what we've seen in the first half. And maybe just a step-down to the operating margin line, not dissimilar. We have had more benefit on the underlying margins in the first half of the year than on structural, and then second half of the year, I expect it to be more even. And yet as we've discussed in prior calls, we sort of reserved the right to stay flexible in the event that we make investment decisions that's linked to what's happening in our many markets around the world. But overall, direction of travel in both the gross and operating line is our margin profile to be strengthening and to be pretty much in line with some of the previous conversations we've had on this topic." Within the puts and takes in 2H24, we would expect a partial reversal of the aforementioned concentrate shipment timing in 3Q and then benefit in 4Q (given extra calendar days) and the comparison on the bottler refranchising is tougher in 4Q (i.e., could be less of a benefit than the 160 bps in 2Q24). The company should continue to see underlying expansion from pricing, mix, and productivity more than offsetting moderating FX headwinds later in the year and ongoing inflation in certain commodities. On the operating expense side the bottler costs come out of the base, but we expect continued deleverage on advertising spend growing ahead of reported top line as the company reinvests behind the brand/momentum (e.g., we believe advertising was up +mid-teens% in 2Q), although at a lower level than 1H24 given easier comparisons to 2H23. The hyperinflationary markets also drive a headwind to EBIT margins, which we expect to continue to some extent in 3Q before lapping mostly in 4Q.

- Management Sees Average Consumer as Resilient - Low-End Continues to See Some Pressure but High-End Performing Well. To us, KO management commentary on the consumer sounded a bit more sanguine relative to PEP. KO CEO Quincey: “Firstly, overall, it’d be fair to say that the consumer sentiment in the aggregate is actually pretty strong, pretty resilient. Within that, there are some softer spots, particularly I think which has been relatively put out there already, some softness in away-from-home channels with a little lower traffic and some increase in value seeking for combo meals. So definitely, there’s a piece of the lower income consumers which are either going out slightly less or when they do go somewhere, they’re looking for greater value through combo meals. And then, of course, in the at-home channels, there’s a slightly greater focus by those consumers on getting kind of value deals or promo deals. Having said that, there’s just as much consumers spending on more premium categories or more premium price points and experiences. So that’s all aggregating out at a sort of resilience for the average overall consumer.” PEP CEO Laguarta: “I think this need for value or more value consciousness, I think, is impacting every household in the US. So it is different levels of income, I think it’s impacting everybody, and we’re seeing behaviors in different income levels. I would aggregate all that, the consumer is much more price-conscious, is looking for more value across. So maybe you see the higher income consumers that they’re not going to expensive restaurants, they’re adjusting their behavior to more affordable restaurant or they stay at home and then they create their own entertainment moments or fun moments at home. So do you see different behaviors happening everywhere? I think the connecting line, it would be the consumer is more cautious, the consumer is more choiceful, but the consumer is willing to spend in areas where they see value and we see it in our category, right? The parts of the category that I was referring to, but also for other parts of the category, they’re asking for more value and they’re willing to compromise in some of their decisions, so that’s the problem to address.”
- Updated 2024 Guidance - Lifted OSG (Again) and FX Headwind; Lifted Comparable EPS Outlook. KO is now guiding to 2024 OSG +9-10% (vs. +8-9% previously) and comparable EPS growth of +5-6% (vs. +4-5% previously), or about $2.82-$2.85. The top-line outlook includes a -5% to -6% headwind from FX (vs. -4% to -5% before) and a -4% to -5% headwind from structural changes (unchanged). The EPS outlook includes a -8% to -9% headwind from FX (vs. -7% to -8% before) and a -1% to -2% headwind from structural change (vs. -2% before). The company continues to expect 2024 FCF of about $9.2B based on $11.4B cash flow from operations and $2.2B capital expenditures and an effective tax rate of 19.0%. For 3Q24, the company is expecting FX to be a -4% headwind to the top line and -8% headwind to EPS and for structural changes to be a -4% to -5% headwind to the top line and -1% to -2% headwind to EPS. Summary of Estimate Changes. We now model for OSG of +10.3% (concentrate shipments +2.0%, price/mix +8.2%) from our prior estimate of +9.3% (concentrate shipments +1.6%, price/mix +7.7%). Our 2024 EPS estimate moves to $2.85 (+6.1% YOY) from $2.82 (+4.6% YOY).
- 2Q24 Recap. KO reported 2Q24 comparable EPS of $0.84, which beat JPMc/consensus $0.82/$0.81. Upside vs. our estimates was driven by stronger-than-expected top line (+$0.02 vs. JPMe), which benefitted from shipment timing, while stronger-than-expected gross margin (+$0.01 vs. JPMe) was offset by higher SG&A (-$0.01 vs. JPMe). OSG of +15% (concentrate shipment basis) came in well ahead of JPMe/Consensus Metrix (CM) +10.7%/+9.7%, or +11% on a unit case volume basis, which still beat (albeit lower magnitude) vs. JPMe/CM +10.7%/+9.7%. OSG was driven by +9% price/mix (vs. JPMe/CM +8.6%/+8.0%) and +6% concentrate shipments (vs. JPMe/CM +2.1%/+1.6%). Unit case volumes grew +2% (vs. JPMe/CM +2.1%/+1.7%), driven by D&E markets +MSD% while Developed markets were flat. KO attributed the 4 point gap between concentrate shipments and unit case volumes on timing of shipments. We note that KO disclosed that about 5 points out of the 9% price/mix growth was “driven by pricing from markets experience intense inflation.” Gross margin of 61.4% expanded +204 bps YOY and came in 40 bps/80 bps ahead of JPMe/consensus 61.0%/60.6%. Operating expense ratio of 28.6% was 84 bps unfavorable YOY and compared to JPMe/consensus 28.4%/27.8%.

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

Coca-Cola (Overweight; Price Target: $72.00)

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the US, shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management, all of which give us confidence in the underlying fundamentals of the business. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

We are establishing a December 2025 target price of $72 based on 22.4x P/E (KO's 2-year average) off our 2026 EPS of $3.22, representing 11% upside from current levels plus a 3% dividend yield. We believe KO shares offer investors solid top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop. These benefits are partially mitigated by the ongoing unfavorable FX outlook, GLP-1 concerns, potential tax liability, and rate environment.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

Downside risks to our Overweight rating and price target include (1) economic weakness leading to material pressure in the away-from-home channel; (2) the uncertainty around potential impact of GLP-1 drugs on demand longer term; (3) margin de-leverage because of inflationary headwinds and/or volume losses; and (4) increasingly unfavorable FX movements—all of which could drive further negative earnings revisions.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
