Remain Positive on Underlying Fundamentals & Ability to Navigate Headwinds: Model Update Post-3Q24

The sequential deceleration in volumes for The Coca-Cola Company (KO, OW rated), implicit 4Q24 guide a touch below Street into results, and initial guidance of MSD FX headwinds and “elevated” interest expense into 2025 more than offset the otherwise positive message of a beat & raise in the 3Q24 earnings release earlier today (link to our first reaction note) and led to share price underperformance (KO -2.1% vs. multinational peers -0.7% and staples XLP -0.2%) following outperformance YTD (into print KO +17.9% vs. MNC peers +5.2% and staples XLP +13.9%). That said, 1) volume trends improved sequentially following a soft July; 2) some transitory issues should abate (weather, tough laps) that drove softer EM results; 3) company has the building blocks to reaching the high-end of its LT algorithm including +4-6% top-line and +7-9% FX-neutral EPS growth; and 4) company has demonstrated better ability to consistently offset known/unknown headwinds and deliver USD EPS growth in recent years. As such, we believe our new 4% estimate for dollar EPS growth in 2025 (HSD in constant currency) will probably prove conservative, but we thought it would be prudent to lower our 2025 EPS estimate by 80 bps vs. prior heading into today with what we know now, and then adjust as we have more visibility on many variables that drive KO results (reminding investors that ~80% of KO volumes are sold abroad). As such, we are updating our estimates following the company’s 3Q24 earnings results, conference call, and our follow-up group conversation with Robin Halpern, VP & Head of IR. Our Dec-25 target price moves to $75 (from $78) based on 23.3x our CY26 EPS of $3.23 (multiple based on current premium to MNCs applied to CY25 MNC P/E) with the lower multiple due to narrowing premium to peers (now ~9% vs. ~14% last month).

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising, and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the US, shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2025 price target is $75, based on 23.3x P/E (current premium to MNC peers applied to weighted average MNC peer CY25 multiples) on our 2026 estimates as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop should sustain KO's relative valuation premium and more than offset concern around GLP-1 and potential tax liability. Our $75 price target implies ~10% upside in the next approximately 14 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

- Initial Considerations for 2025 a Bit More Onerous than vs. Prior Expectations - Lowering EPS by ~1%. Beyond a somewhat lower quality 3Q24 beat (i.e., pricing and SG&A driven) and implied lower 4Q24 vs. expectations into the print (although perhaps conservative), the key driver of the stock softness today is the likelihood that 2025 estimates move down a bit on the company's initial considerations for 2025 including FX to be a -LSD%/-MSD% top-line/EPS headwind and net interest expense to be "elevated" given increased debt load/lower cash position stemming from $6B escrow payment to fund IRS tax litigation appeal and now $6.1B Fairlife contingent consideration payment (up from $5.3B estimate in 2Q24). We had already been modeling for a material step-up in net interest expense in 2025 (i.e., prior estimates had -3.5% drag to EPS growth), although it appears that Street estimates called for a more modest ~-1.5% headwind. We believe the FX headwind is also likely larger than expected and while the company will look to offset the headwind through RGM and productivity, ultimately it may be more difficult to fully offset if the headwinds are coming from more developed markets vs. emerging markets given longer timeline to be able to pass through currency devaluation in more mature marketplaces. We continue to believe KO is better positioned now vs. history to continue driving USD EPS growth despite FX and other headwinds (e.g., macro softness in certain markets, higher interest expense) given its "all-weather" strategy supported by multi-year investments behind marketing/innovation and commercial execution. Net-net, our 2025 EPS moves roughly 1 point lower to $2.97 (+4.0% YOY).
- Unit Case Volume Disappointed Driven by Soft July - Trends Improved Sequentially Through The Quarter and Outlook for Better Volume Performance Ahead. KO's unit case volumes fell -1% in 3Q (vs. CM+0.4%), which decelerated from +2% in 2Q24 (albeit tougher comparison lapping +2% in 3Q23 vs. flat in 2Q23) and marked the first quarter since 4Q22 and only second quarter since 4Q20 with lower YOY unit case volumes. Importantly, though, the decline seemed to be driven mostly by a much softer-than-expected July as management noted that unit case trends improved sequentially throughout August and September and there seemed to be some transitory impacts in some International markets that are likely to abate and lead to a better volume performance ahead (e.g., India experienced higher than normal monsoon season, Mexico very tough comparison). Some headwinds will persist, like macro softness in China (in addition to strategic reprioritization of water) and impacts from conflicts in the Middle East, but overall expectations are for emerging markets trends to improve. Additionally, the company is seeing in aggregate a resilient macro environment and saw solid performance in developed markets including volume growth in Europe and volume growth in many parts of the portfolio in the U.S. (sparkling, premium stills, offset by de-prioritization in case pack water) and is also seeing sequential improvement in away-from-home performance with sharper value messaging from QSR players (management doesn't see MCD E. coli issue as "large or significant" impact at this point). We also note that while the company has two extra calendar days in 4Q24, which should be a benefit to concentrate shipments, ultimately the impact may be smaller given that the company saw less destocking than expected in 3Q24 following stocking in 2Q24 (i.e., the company had been expecting ~2 points destocking in 3Q24 but actual impact was <1 point). YTD concentrate shipments are running about 1 point ahead of unit case volumes in LatAm, North America, and Asia Pacific, while EMEA concentrate shipments are 3 points behind unit case volumes.
- Price/Mix Continued to Surprise to the Upside - Some Mechanical/Transitory

Factors but Underlying Still Solid and There Are Sustainable Tailwinds. Price/mix came in at +10% (vs. CM +7.1%) and was the twelfth consecutive quarter of +HSD-LDD% price/mix contribution. That said, as with recent quarters the “true” price/mix was more like +6% with around 3 points of mix and 3 points of price. As such, markets with intense inflation drove around 4 points contribution to price/mix growth (we expect impact from these market to abate further in 4Q24). Within the mix component, some of the benefit was driven by geographic mix as developed markets atypically outgrew emerging markets (developed markets higher price per case and more weighted to finished goods). Management also noted that within North America +11% price/mix, roughly half was driven by mix (e.g., deprioritization of case pack water, growth in fairlife, Topo Chico, trademark Coca-Cola) and half was driven by price, which should moderate as CPI continues to normalize. Looking ahead, we expect the company to continue to drive both rate and mix - KO will continue to face FX headwinds, which it looks to recover over time (although tougher in developed vs. emerging markets), and price more in-line with CPI, as well as drive mix through a combination of premium offerings. That said, some of the 3Q24 dynamics should normalize into 4Q24 and 2025 as emerging markets should return to outpacing developed markets growth (i.e., positive for unit case volumes but headwind to price/mix).

- Continued Underlying Margin Expansion - Puts and Takes Ahead - Still Facing Inflation but RGM, Productivity Should Help and Geographic Mix Should Normalize. Gross margins expanded roughly 70 bps and EBIT margins expanded roughly 100 bps, although gross margins of 61.2% missed consensus by around -39 bps, which was likely driven in part by stronger growth in developed markets with higher mix of finished goods (lower gross margin). In total underlying expansion contributed 40 bps to gross margins, including 20 bps from segment mix (finished goods BIG and Global Ventures underperformed) and bottler refranchising drove 140 bps expansion, partially offset by -110 bps FX headwind. Looking ahead, the company expects continued underlying gross margin expansion and could see some slight benefit from extra calendar days (although less benefit than we had previously expected), in addition to continued benefit from bottler refranchising (lower contribution than 3Q24 though as lapping tougher comparison). For 2025, as noted before FX is expected to be a -LSD% headwind to the top-line, which will likely have some impact on gross margins, and the company expects agricultural commodities to see higher prices and remain volatile (e.g., juice) in addition to ongoing wage inflation (company expects industrial materials to be relatively stable, although some increase in packaging, albeit at a lower growth rate). We expect KO to be able to navigate these headwinds through a mix of RGM and productivity, and we also expect that there could be more leverage in the middle of the P&L as company leans into cost savings.
- Macro Largely Resilient in Aggregate - Doesn't Seem to be Much Change From Prior Commentary. To us, KO management continues to sound a bit more constructive on the macro overall relative to peer PEP, which is in-line with the prior quarter as well. CEO Quincey noted “One, at a global level, the consumer and the economies, I mean, the IMF report came out yesterday, is relatively resilient and relatively stable on a global basis. Clearly, there are a set of puts and takes between geographies, between income levels. But the macros in aggregate are a sum of a shifting set of puts and takes, but resilient in aggregate. Exactly how that will turn out, I'm not sure next year. Probably different puts and takes, but again, resilience on an overall basis.”
- Lifted Some Elements of 2024 Guidance (Including OSG), But Reiterated

Comparable EPS Outlook. KO is now guiding to 2024 OSG of approximately +10% (vs. +9-10% previously) and reiterated comparable EPS growth of +5-6%, or about $2.82-$2.85. The top-line outlook includes a -5% headwind from FX (from -5% to -6% before) and a -4% to -5% headwind from structural changes (unchanged). The EPS outlook includes a -9% headwind from FX (vs. -8% to -9% before) and a -1% to -2% headwind from structural change (unchanged). As such, currency-neutral EPS growth is expected to be +14-15% (vs. +13-15% before). The company continues to expect 2024 FCF excluding the IRS tax litigation deposit ($6B) of approximately $9.2B based on $11.4B cash flow from operations and $2.2B capital expenditures. KO now expects an effective tax rate of 18.8% (vs. 19.0% before). For 4Q24, the company is expecting FX to be a -4% headwind to the top-line and -10% headwind to EPS and for structural changes to be a -4% to -5% headwind to the top-line and -3% to -4% headwind to EPS. Summary of Estimate Changes. We now model for OSG of +10.2% (concentrate shipments +0.8%, price/mix +9.4%) from our prior estimate of +10.0% (concentrate shipments +1.6%, price/mix +8.5%). Our 2024 EPS estimate is unchanged at $2.85 (~+6% YOY).

- 3Q24 Recap. KO reported 3Q24 comparable EPS of $0.77, which beat JPMe/consensus $0.75/$0.75. Upside vs. our estimates was driven by better-than-expected top line (+$0.02 vs. JPMe) and SG&A ratio (+$0.02 vs. JPMe), which was partially offset by softer-than-expected gross margin (-$0.02 vs. JPMe). OSG of +9% (concentrate shipment basis) came in well ahead JPMe/Consensus Metrix (CM) +5.1%/+6.6%, or +9% on a unit case volume basis vs. JPMe/CM +7.4%/+7.5% (we note that concentrate shipments were a point behind unit case volumes, although likely due to rounding the company noted OSG was +9%). Unit case volumes declined -1% (vs. JPMe/CM +0.6%/+0.4%) driven primarily by softness in China, Mexico, and Turkiye. Price/mix contributed +10% to OSG vs. JPMe/CM +6.9%/+7.1% with company noting 4 points was “driven by pricing from markets experiencing intense inflation. Gross margins of 61.2% expanded +67 bps YOY and came in -93 bps/-39 bps vs. JPMe/consensus 62.1%/61.5%. Operating expense ratio of 30.4% was 37 bps favorable YOY and compared to JPMe/consensus 31.3%/30.9%.

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

Coca-Cola (Overweight; Price Target: $75.00)

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the US, shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management, all of which give us confidence in the underlying fundamentals of the business. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2025 price target is $75, based on 23.3x P/E (current premium to MNC peers applied to weighted average MNC peer CY25 multiples) on our 2026 estimates as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop should sustain KO's relative valuation premium and more than offset concern around GLP-1 and potential tax liability. Our $75 price target implies ~10% upside in the next approximately 15 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

Downside risks to our Overweight rating and price target include (1) economic weakness leading to material pressure in the away-from-home channel; (2) the uncertainty around potential impact of GLP-1 drugs on demand longer term; (3) margin de-leverage because of inflationary headwinds and/or volume losses; and (4) increasingly unfavorable FX movements—all of which could drive further negative earnings revisions.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
