Delivered Another Pop Amid More Downbeat Staples Earnings Season; Model Update Post-4Q24

The Coca-Cola Company (KO, Overweight rated) 4Q24 results and 2025 guidance demonstrated what makes it a preferred name in Staples - consistent volume growth and strong brand equity reflected in its ability to drive superior pricing power and diverse mix, fueled by consistent investments and by meeting consumers where they are with affordable/premium options (RGM). Guidance for 2025 was also solid, at the higher-end of the company's longer-term algorithm on a FX-neutral basis (even more impressive on EPS considering tax rate is a ~2.5 point headwind) and we think investors appreciate the company's ability to navigate the macro landscape (e.g., USD appreciation, potential commodity headwinds) and drive productivity to deliver USD EPS growth.

- Raising Estimates. We are updating our estimates following the company's 4Q24 earnings results, conference call, and our follow-up group conversation with Robin Halpern, VP & Head of IR. As we discuss below, we see KO as well positioned to deliver at/above the high-end of guidance for '25 (OSG estimate remains at +6.5% and our EPS estimate moves to $2.96 from $2.93).
- Stock Upside: Amid a rough earnings season for staples, we were not too surprised to see the stock react positively today up +4.7% vs. staples XLP up 1.0%. We think there is still upside with our Dec-25 target price moving to $74 (from $70) based on 23x our CY26 EPS of $3.21 (multiple based on roughly current premium to MNC peers CY25 P/E and also largely in-line with high-quality peers OW-rated PG and CL). We look forward to hearing more on KO's view on the long-term drivers and progress on marketing and resource allocation transformation at its presentation at CAGNY next Tuesday.
- Confident in High-End of 2025 Outlook with Sustainable Volume Growth... KO guided 2025 OSG to +5-6%, which is the higher-end of the company's long-term algorithm and was in-line with expectations heading into the print. We are confident in the growth drivers ahead and our 2025 OSG estimate remains slightly above the high-end of guidance at +6.5%. Volume performance (unit cases) has been remarkably consistent over the past 5 years with a CAGR of +1.7% and the company exited 2024 running about +2%. While volume performance may not meet the +2-3% LT algorithm, we think KO can get close as there are encouraging signs in some of the Developing markets that typically drive the bulk of volume growth (e.g., China volume inflected positive in 4Q and KO is beginning to see better trends. India also rebounded to positive volume growth after monsoon-impacted 3Q, Middle East beginning to improve lapping impacts from conflicts, LatAm continues to perform well) as KO continues to drive affordability options (refillables drove 1/3 of ASEAN/South Pacific volume growth in 2024) and there are also positive signs in some DM (North America 1% unit cases driven by fairlife, sparkling flavors/Coke and improving away-from-home trends, Japan/South Korea growing volumes) with KO driving higher incidence through integrated POS marketing strategies and cold equipment expansion.

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising, and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the US, shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2025 price target is $74, based on 23x P/E (~in-line with current premium to MNC peers and more in-line with high-quality peers PG and CL) on our 2026 estimates as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop should sustain KO's relative valuation premium and more than offset concern around GLP-1 and potential tax liability. Our $74 price target implies ~10% upside in the next approximately 10.5 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

- ... Paired with Strong RGM... KO's ability to drive price/mix to offset local market inflation and drive both affordability and premiumization has been impressive and we expect the company to continue to leverage RGM in 2025. Price/mix for 4Q24 came in at an impressive +9% (vs. CM +6.1%) and was the thirteenth consecutive quarter of +HSD-LDD% price/mix contribution. That said, as with recent quarters the "true" price/mix was more like +5% with around 1 point of mix and 4 points of price. As such, markets with intense inflation drove around 4 points contribution to price/mix growth. While inflation-led pricing benefit should moderate through the year, we still see the company posting +MSD% price/mix contribution in 2025, which contemplates ~3.5-4.0% underlying pricing and 1% for inflation intensive markets, with potential for some mix contribution as well. From a North American perspective, around half of the +12% price/mix was driven by mix (fairlife, away from home) and looking to 2025 while the contribution from both price and mix is likely to moderate, we still see the company driving solid +MSD% contribution as c-store/QSRs are recovering and fairlife should continue to contribute positively (albeit capacity constrained) and the company put through annual pricing.
- ... And Ability to Drive Margin Expansion Through Productivity. KO's guidance, which management noted does not include significant leverage/deleverage below-the-line (i.e., through PBT), embeds margin expansion (i.e., ~2% all-in top-line vs. ~2-3% EPS or adding back tax change ~5-6% PBT; said another way, on a constant currency basis +5-6% top-line would be leading to +11-13% constant-currency EPS growth ex-tax rate change), which management expects to be driven primarily in the middle of the P&L. Gross margins could see some underlying expansion as pricing, mix, productivity, and some carryover impact from refranchising more than offset commodity inflation mostly on agricultural products (e.g., coffee, juice), while at this point industrial commodities appear more benign for KO. More of the leverage is driven by SG&A as work done over the past several years to drive productivity through networked marketing model and platform services begin to bear fruit. Management noted that its bias is to continue to invest behind brands, but the company is driving higher efficiency/effectiveness out of its spend. From a phasing perspective, with two fewer calendar days and FX headwinds likely to mitigate refranchising benefit and with expenses driven more so by unit cases (vs. concentrate shipments), we think 1Q25 is likely to see more muted margin performance and build through the year as productivity benefits flow through and the company benefits from an extra calendar day in 4Q25. Management noted that it expects to talk more to its marketing transformation and resource allocation journey at its CAGNY presentation next Tuesday, February 18.
- Levers to Mitigate Potential Impacts from Metals Inflation, Not Going to Derail Outlook. Given 25% tariffs on steel and aluminum, there is some concern on the market-level impact in the U.S. if bottlers have to take pricing to offset cost inflation as aluminum+Midwest premium is now running up mid-20s% YOY. The company helps bottlers manage through the impacts through its cross-enterprise procurement team and also can emphasize different package types if there is cost pressure on aluminum (e.g., more emphasis on PET). Net-net, management doesn't see potential impact from aluminum cost inflation to derail its outlook and that given the size of exposure is a manageable issue.
- Solid Underlying FCF Performance - 2026 Should Serve as Inflection with Capital Allocation Flexibility. KO's 2024 FCF adjusted for the IRS tax litigation deposit was $10.8B, up 11% YOY and representing a 93% conversion ratio, in-line with the longer-term target (90-95%). 2025 will continue to have discreet items impacting cash flow delivery, most notably fairlife contingent consideration payment (likely late 1Q or early 2Q), which is now $6.2B, as well as $1.2B in transition tax payments (final year of payments, up $240M YOY). Moreover, the company expects some working capital benefit from 2024 to reverse in 2025. As such, with the company expecting $9.5B free cash flow adjusted for fairlife payment, reported cash flow is more likely to be in the $3.3B range. That said, looking ahead to 2026 there should be a material step-up in free cash delivery, which should provide KO with more flexibility from a capital allocation perspective, perhaps including more activity from an M&A and/or share repurchase perspective. Given constraints on the balance sheet, KO hasn't done a more sizeable acquisition since 2021 (BODYARMOR), but we think the company could become more active ahead, with CEO Quincey noting "we'll talk more at CAGNY, when you look at the track record of the Coca-Cola Company in terms of creating organically and scaling small bolt-on M&A into billion-dollar brands, we are by far and away the clear leaders in the industry and the winners."

- Macro Remains Stable Broadly - Lower Income Still Pressured, Other Cohorts Continuing to Spend, Signs of Recovery in Away from Home. In discussing the consumer environment, CEO Quincey noted that overall trends have been relatively stable given broad based economic growth around the world. In Developed Markets, KO continues to see pressure on lower income cohorts, more so in Western Europe relative to the U.S., which is likely to continue through some part of 2025, although the rest of the consumer cohort continues to spend as disposable income grows, again more tilted toward the U.S. relative to Western Europe. In Emerging Markets, notwithstanding typical volatility, consumer demand remains strong broadly (although always some puts and takes between markets). Further to North America, management noted that consumers have responded well to value messaging in away from home channels, like QSR.
- Initial 2025 Guidance Largely In-Line with Expectations into Results. KO provided initial 2025 guidance including OSG of +5-6% (vs. consensus +5.9% into the print) and comparable EPS growth of +2-3% (vs. consensus +3.4% into the print), which implies 2025 EPS of about $2.94-$2.97 (vs. consensus $2.95 into the print). The company is now expecting FX to be a headwind of -3% to -4% to the top-line (vs. -LSD% before and vs. CM -2.6% into the print) and -6% to -7% to EPS (vs. -MSD% before). The company is also expecting structural changes to be a "slight headwind" to both top-line and EPS growth. As such, the company is expecting constant-currency comparable EPS growth of +8-10%. Below the line, KO is expecting an effective tax rate of 20.8% and for interest expense to be elevated in 2025. KO is expecting free cash flow (non-GAAP, excluding fairlife contingent consideration payment of $6.2B) of $9.5B based on cash flow from operations (non-GAAP, excluding fairlife contingent consideration payment of $6.2B) of $11.7B and capital expenditures of $2.2B. The company is also expecting transition tax payments of $1.2B in 2025. For 1Q25, the company is expecting FX to be a -3% to -4% headwind to the top-line and -5% to -6% headwind to the bottom-line and for structural changes to be a -2% to -3% headwind to the top-line and -2% to -3% headwind to the bottom-line. KO noted that there will be two fewer days in 1Q25 vs. 1Q24 and one extra day in 4Q25 vs. 4Q24. Summary of Estimate Changes. We continue to model for OSG of +6.5% (concentrate shipments +1.6%, price/mix +5.0% — lifted price/mix 40 bps and lowered volumes about 40 bps). Our 2025 EPS estimate moves to $2.96 (+2.5% YOY) from $2.93 (+2.9% YOY).
- 4Q24 Recap. KO reported 4Q24 comparable EPS of $0.55, which beat JPMc/consensus $0.52/$0.52. Upside vs. our estimates was driven by better than expected top-line (+$0.03 vs. JPMe), gross margin (+$0.01 vs. JPMe), and non-operating items (net +$0.01 vs. JPMe), which was partially offset by higher than expected SG&A ratio (-$0.02 vs. JPMe). OSG of +14% came in far ahead of JPMe/Consensus Metrix (CM) +6.5%/+7.0%, or +11% on a unit case volume basis vs. JPMe/CM +5.8%/+6.3%. Unit case volumes were +2% (vs. JPMe/CM flat/+0.2%) while concentrate shipments were +5% (vs. JPMe/CM +0.8%/+1.0%) and price/mix contributed +9% (vs. JPMe/CM +5.7%/+6.1%). Management attributed the 3 point delta between unit cases and concentrate shipments mostly to two extra calendar days in the quarter and timing of shipments. Within the +9% price/mix, about 4 points were driven by markets with intense inflation, with the balance driven by pricing actions and mix. Gross margins of 59.4% expanded +161 bps (underlying +170 bps YOY, FX -100bps, structural +90 bps) and come in +61 bps/+98 bps vs. JPMe/consensus 58.8%/58.5%. Operating expense ratio of 35.5% was 76 bps unfavorable YOY and compares to JPMe/consensus 34.3%/34.4%.

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

Coca-Cola (Overweight; Price Target: $74.00)

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the US, shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management, all of which give us confidence in the underlying fundamentals of the business. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2025 price target is $74, based on 23x P/E (~in-line with current premium to MNC peers and more in-line with high-quality peers PG and CL) on our 2026 estimates as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop should sustain KO's relative valuation premium and more than offset concern around GLP-1 and potential tax liability. Our $74 price target implies ~10% upside in the next approximately 10.5 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

Downside risks to our Overweight rating and price target include (1) economic weakness leading to material pressure in the away-from-home channel; (2) the uncertainty around potential impact of GLP-1 drugs on demand longer term; (3) margin de-leverage because of inflationary headwinds and/or volume losses; and (4) increasingly unfavorable FX movements—all of which could drive further negative earnings revisions.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
