A Refreshing Outlook Amid Challenging Consumer Landscape; Model Update Post-1Q25

The Coca-Cola Company (KO, Overweight rated) did what it had to do as a crowded long viewed as a “port in a storm” - beat top-line/EPS despite macro/geopolitical volatility and reiterated headline aspects of 2025 guidance amid a staples tape that has generally seen peers lowering top-line and/or EPS outlook on softening consumer demand and incremental trade-related headwinds. If there is a bone to pick, it’s that KO lowered currency-neutral EPS growth outlook by a point (to +7-9% from +8-10%), mostly just as cushion it seems (i.e., doesn’t seem to be driven by any one specific factor). That said, investor focus over the past ten or so years has been squarely on USD EPS growth (and probably not giving enough credit to currency-neutral EPS growth), and the company reiterated its comparable EPS growth outlook for +2-3%, which could leave some upside as the year progresses.

Net-net, we remain bullish on KO shares in spite of its relative outperformance (YTD KO +16.2% vs. staples XLP +3.4% and S&P 500 -5.5%) because (1) top-line growth should continue to outpace its peers (as seen in this earnings season so far); (2) diversified source of volumes globally with >80% of volumes from international markets, (3) significant room to grow commercial beverages in China and India, and (4) FX headwinds abating is a source of potential earnings upside. Our Dec-25 target price moves to $79 (from $78) based on 24.4x our 2026 EPS of $3.22 (multiple in-line with current KO P/E). We are updating our estimates following the company’s 1Q25 earnings results, conference call, and our follow-up group conversation with Robin Halpern, VP & Head of IR. As we discuss below, with what we know now, we continue to see KO as well positioned to deliver at least at the high-end of guidance for ’25 (OSG estimate remains at +5.8% and our EPS estimate moves to $2.97 from $2.96).

- Solid Operating Results Amid Heightened Volatility Demonstrates Strength of Model. KO beat consensus across sales (OSG +6% vs. Street +5.1%), gross margin (+60 bps vs. Street), and SG&A (+20 bps vs. Street) and reiterated the headline elements to the 2025 outlook including OSG +5-6% and comparable EPS +2-3%. In our view, results demonstrate the attractiveness of KO’s “all weather” strategy supported by diversified/broad geographic footprint, consumer-centric marketing/innovation, and strong and agile commercial execution that is able to emphasize affordability and/or premiumization to serve consumer needs. Amid heightened macroeconomic and geopolitical volatility (e.g., softening consumer sentiment, particularly among Hispanics - more below) and calendar/holiday shifts (e.g., two less days in quarter, later Easter holiday), KO was still able to deliver OSG at the high-end of its long-term algorithm (i.e., +4-6%) as better-than-expected volume performance in EMEA more than offset softer-than-expected performance in North America. The company was also able to deliver underlying margin expansion (tenth consecutive quarter of YOY EBIT margin expansion) with operating margins reaching a high-water mark (33.8%) in our model.

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising, and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the U.S., shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2025 price target is $79, based on 24.4x P/E (in-line with current CY25 multiple) on our 2026 estimates, as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop should sustain KO's relative valuation premium and more than offset concerns around GLP-1 and potential tax liability. Our $79 price target implies ~9% upside potential in the next approximately 8 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in the current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

- Manageable Trade Disruption Impact - Benchmarks Well vs. Peers. On the 1Q25 conference call, CFO Murphy said, “While our system primarily executes locally, we’re not immune to global trade dynamics. Based on what we know today, the dynamic tariff landscape could impact pockets of our system’s cost structure as well as consumer sentiment in our markets. At this time, we believe we have numerous levers to help manage the impact, which is contributing to our current 2025 guidance.” While KO lowered its FX-neutral EPS guidance by 1 point, it maintained comparable range on 1 point less onerous FX while MNC peers have generally lowered profit guidance more materially with C1Q25 results (e.g., PEP CY2025 flat from +MSD% before, KMB CY2025 flat to positive from +MSD-HSD % before, PG implied ~5 point impact at midpoint on FY26 before mitigation efforts). Moreover, we do not believe KO’s FX-neutral guidance reduction is necessarily trade related but rather providing cushion to the EPS growth outlook should the operating environment change. KO’s primary exposure to tariffs from a U.S. import perspective are things like orange juice and dispensing equipment and indirectly through the bottling system inputs like aluminum and resins. That said, management believes these impacts are relatively small in scope of the total enterprise. CEO Quincey noted that given all of the factors as the company currently sees it, the company is “sticking to our current pricing plans for the year.”
- Choppy Environment Continues Ahead - Tough Comps in 2Q; Well Positioned for FY Guidance. Management called out expectations that choppy environment would persist in 2Q25 and the company faces a tougher comparison from a volume perspective (lapping +2% unit cases in 2Q24 vs. +1% in 1Q24). The commentary didn’t seem to signal anything particular to call out as a read-through from April (and in fact, tracked channel data in the U.S. appear to be getting a bit better with Easter seeming to perform well), just that there could be some volatility from second-order consumer impacts. That said, we believe the company is well positioned from a guidance perspective - the company’s volume delivery has been remarkably consistent over time (since CEO Quincey first full year 7-year volume CAGR +1.8%) and gradual improvement in consumer sentiment with respect to KO brands in certain markets (e.g., U.S., Mexico) should be paired with ongoing volume momentum in developing economies (e.g., China, India, Turkey); price/mix should also continue to contribute positive with underlying pricing +4-5% and mix potentially a slight headwind given geographic mix (although immediate consumptions has actually been outperforming future consumption in many markets).
- Addressing Consumer Challenges with “Localness,” Generally Not Experiencing Anti-American Sentiment Outside of Challenges with Hispanic Consumers in U.S./Mexico. The company saw a pullback in consumer demand among Hispanics in the U.S. and Mexico (Northern Mexico near border) during the quarter on geopolitical tensions and viral video that led to boycotts of Coke original among some Hispanic consumers. Management noted the impact is abating, but likely will be a gradual recovery. Elsewhere, there hasn’t been broad-based anti-American sentiment (perhaps a bit in Europe and some other countries) but regardless the company has navigated these sorts of challenges before. In the current environment, the company is emphasizing its “localness” (in that production and distribution are local businesses supporting employment and economic growth) to consumers with marketing messaging such as “Hecho en Mexico” in Mexico and “Made in, Made by” campaign in Türkiye.
- fairlife Continues to be Very Strong, but Growth Percentages May Moderate Somewhat Ahead in Advance of Material Capacity Expansion at End of Year.

fairlife continues to show strong momentum as internal teams find ways to increase capacity despite constraints. In NielsenIQ FMV+C channels, fairlife L4W 4/19/25 dollar/unit sales grew +51%/+36% including shakes dollar sales +66% and milk dollar sales +35%. Management cautioned that fairlife growth percentages could moderate during the remainder of 2025 in advance of bringing new greenfield capacity online toward the end of the year, although this was more a comment on growth percentages (relative to dollars) given the compounding size of the business that has grown strong +DD% over many years. CEO Quincey noted that the new capacity will be “more than enough to see us through a good number of years and certainly will make it unconstrained.” The company still sees significant runway for the fairlife brand given secular tailwinds (e.g., protein, low/no lactose), longer shelf life, and taste/quality and the incremental capacity will allow KO to reinvest more behind marketing and innovation to drive demand ahead (given capacity constraints and growth rates, KO has been focused on core products to this point).

- Reiterated Headline Elements of 2025 Guidance Including OSG & Comparable EPS. KO reiterated guidance for OSG +5-6% (vs. consensus into the print +5.7%) and comparable EPS growth of +2-3% (vs. consensus into the print +2.6%), which implies 2025 EPS of about $2.94-$2.97 (vs. consensus into the print $2.96). KO lowered its currency-neutral EPS growth outlook to +7-9% (from +8-10% previously) but also lowered FX headwind to EPS to -5% to -6% (from -6% to -7% previously). KO also now expected FX to be a -2% to -3% headwind to the top-line (from -3% to -4% previously). The company continues to expect structural changes to be a “slight headwind” to both top-line and EPS growth. The company also added to guidance, “the company’s operations are primarily local, however, it is subject to global trade dynamics which may impact certain components of the company’s cost structure across its markets. At this time, the company expects the impact to be manageable.” Below the line, KO continues to expect an effective tax rate of 20.8% and for interest expense to be elevated in 2025. KO reiterated expectations for free cash flow (non-GAAP, excluding fairlife contingent consideration payment of $6.2B) of $9.5B based on cash flow from operations (non-GAAP, excluding fairlife contingent consideration payment of $6.2B) of $11.7B and capital expenditures of $2.2B. The company is also expecting transition tax payments of $1.2B in 2025. For 2Q25, the company is expecting FX to be a -3% headwind to the top-line and -5% to -6% headwind to the bottom-line. Summary of Estimate Changes. We continue to model for OSG of +5.8% (concentrate shipments +1.3%, price/mix +4.4% — lifted volumes 30 bps and lowered price/mix 30 bps). Our 2025 EPS estimate moves to $2.97 (+3.0% YOY) from $2.96 (+2.8% YOY).
- 1Q25 Recap. KO reported 1Q25 comparable EPS of $0.73, which beat JPMe/consensus $0.70/$0.72 by +4%/+1%. Upside vs. our estimates was driven by lower-than-expected SG&A ratio (+$0.02 vs. JPMe) and stronger-than-expected gross margin (+$0.01 vs. JPMe). OSG of +6% came in ahead of JPMe/Consensus Metrix (CM) +5.6%/+5.1%, or +7% on a unit case volume basis vs. JPMe/CM +7.2%/+6.0%. Unit case volumes were +2% (vs. JPMe/CM +1.0%/+0.4%) while concentrate shipments were +1% (vs. JPMe/CM -0.6%/-0.3%). Management attributed the one point delta between unit cases and concentrate shipments due to two fewer calendar days in the quarter, partially offset by timing of shipments. Price/mix was +5% (vs. JPMe/CM +6.2%/+5.6%) with management noting primarily driven by pricing actions while mix was a -1% headwind and markets with intense inflation contributed +1%. Gross margins of 62.6% were about +30 bps YOY (underlying +70 bps YOY, FX -60 bps YOY, structural +30 bps YOY) and came in ahead of JPMe/consensus 62.3%/62.0%. Operating expense ratio of 28.8% was 100 bps favorable YOY and compared to JPMe/consensus 29.8%/29.0%.

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

Coca-Cola (Overweight; Price Target: $79.00)

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the U.S., shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management, all of which give us confidence in the underlying fundamentals of the business. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2025 price target is $79, based on 24.4x P/E (in-line with current CY25 multiple) on our 2026 estimates, as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop should sustain KO's relative valuation premium and more than offset concerns around GLP-1 and potential tax liability. Our $79 price target implies ~9% upside potential in the next approximately 8 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in the current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

Downside risks to our Overweight rating and price target include (1) economic weakness leading to material pressure in the away-from-home channel; (2) uncertainty around potential impact of GLP-1 drugs on demand longer term; (3) margin de-leverage because of inflationary headwinds and/or volume losses; and (4) increasingly unfavorable FX movements – all of which could drive further negative earnings revisions.

Coca-Cola (KO, KO US) Price Chart

Source: Bloomberg Finance L.P. and J.P. Morgan; price data adjusted for stock splits and dividends. Initiated coverage Oct 03, 2011. All share prices are as of market close on the previous business day.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
