Volumes Poised to Improve Ahead: Model Update Post-2Q25

The Coca-Cola Company (KO, Overweight rated) delivered solid results exceeding consensus on both OSG and EPS. That said, the bar was high as a crowded long within Staples and the print wasn't perfect with unit case volumes softening more than expected (that said, much of the incremental softening seems to have been driven by external factors that should abate - e.g., weather, geopolitics). With strong outperformance YTD (into the print KO +12.5% vs. XLP +2.9%) and squeeze price action across a number of consumer sectors, the underperformance in KO shares on the day makes sense (KO -0.6% vs. XLP +0.9%).

We expect unit case volume performance to improve ahead (more below) and continue to view KO favorably within our coverage universe with potential for further relative strength as (1) top-line growth should continue to outpace most peers with strong track record of agile commercial execution as operating environment evolves and delivering consumer-centric marketing/innovation; (2) KO has been remarkably consistent in volume delivery over the past ~7 years with diversified geographic footprint enabling balanced growth; (3) FX headwinds abating could be a source of stronger earnings growth in 2026; and (4) strong profit delivery (11th quarter of YOY EBIT margin expansion and reached new high-water mark in 2Q), free cash flow poised to inflect as company moves past tax/M&A related payments and low leverage allows for flexibility. We continue to see KO as well positioned to deliver near or above the high-end of guidance for '25 (OSG and EPS estimates remain unchanged at +5.7% and $2.99, respectively).

We are establishing a Dec-26 target price of $79 based on 22.7x our 2027 EPS of $3.48 with the multiple based on KO's 10-year historical average. We are also updating our estimates following the company's 2Q25 earnings results, conference call, and follow-up group conversation with Joe Lovas, Senior Director, IR.

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising, and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the U.S., shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2026 price target is $79, based on 22.7x P/E (in-line with KO's 10-year average multiple) on our 2027 EPS estimate of $3.48, as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop should sustain KO's relative valuation premium and more than offset concerns around GLP-1 and potential tax liability. Our $79 price target implies ~13% upside potential in the next approximately 17 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in the current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

- Solid OSG Delivery Against Tough Compares and Challenging External Dynamics in Certain Markets - Demonstrates “All-Weather” Strategy. OSG of +5% was largely in-line with expectations with price/mix stronger and volumes softer than anticipated. Management noted that April and May volumes were “on track” on a two-year basis but decelerated in June amid unfavorable weather and “pockets” of consumer pressure. We believe most of the -1% unit case volume decline in the quarter was driven by June performance. KO’s OSG delivery despite softer-than-expected trends most notably in Mexico and India continues to demonstrate the attractiveness of its “all-weather” strategy exemplified by diversified geographic footprint and ability to quickly pivot around market-level issues to drive growth. For example, volume trends in the U.S. improved as the company worked through pressure on brands due to viral false video and trends in Mexico likewise were improving as KO lifted/shifted strategies to mitigate geopolitical pressures including highlighting “localness” and also pulled forward World Cup activation. Moreover, volumes improved in both Western and Eastern Europe (and EMEA overall) following a softer 1Q. On the other hand, unseasonably cold weather and hurricane impacted Mexico performance in June and India volumes declined on early monsoon activity and geopolitical conflict early in the important summer season. Several other markets in ASEAN also saw weaker-than-expected performance on consumer softness.
- Set-Up Should Improve Following 2Q as Comparisons Get Easier in 3Q and External Factors Normalize. While the magnitude of deceleration was more than expected in 2Q, we believe the factors impacting the quarter should mostly abate ahead and we see KO as having a solid set-up for 2H25. First, comparisons ease sequentially both YOY and on a multi-year basis with the company lapping 3Q24 unit cases -1% (vs. 2Q24 tough comp +2%) with Mexico in particular shifting from toughest comp to easiest comp of the year; on a multi-year basis 3Q24 unit case volume lap is +1.3% vs. +1.8% in 2Q24. Second, while 4Q comparison gets tougher again (lapping +2% unit case volume in 4Q24), on a multi-year basis the comparison (+1.7%) is largely in-line with longer-term average (+1.8%) and by that time we would expect KO to be able to pivot/adapt to improve performance in markets where needed as the company likely reinvests more in 2H given 1H profit outperformance. Third, performance in the U.S. seems to be improving with CSD performance better as the company moves past a false viral video (although we model more conservatively as comparisons tougher sequentially). Fourth, price/mix should continue to be a solid driver of OSG as rate contribution should be relatively consistent (i.e., of +6% price/mix in 2Q25, 5 points were pricing with 1 point driven by intense inflation markets).
- Strong Margin Delivery on Earlier Productivity + Some Timing Benefit - Allows For Flexibility for Reinvestment. KO’s operating margins hit a high-water mark in 2Q25 at 34.7%, expanding +194 bps YOY and well ahead of consensus 33.3%. Margin outperformance was driven by a good balance between better-than-expected gross margin (+79 bps YOY and +81 bps ahead of consensus) and lower-than-expected operating expense ratio (+114 bps favorable YOY and 60 bps better than consensus). Underlying margin expansion drove ~160 bps benefit to gross margin and ~320 bps benefit to operating margins and CFO Murphy noted that about $\frac{1}{3}$ of the underlying expansion was driven by faster-than-expected realization of productivity savings while the remaining $\frac{2}{3}$ was driven by timing of investments and favorable cycling dynamics. Given the outperformance on margins in 2Q, the company no longer is expecting 2025 margin expansion to be back-half weighted, although there is still margin expansion embedded into the outlook. Stronger-than-expected margin delivery also allows for some reinvestment in 2H25 in order to lean into growth initiatives to deliver on plan and also set up momentum into 2026.

- Hedging Leaves USD Moderation Less of a Benefit for Now, But Could Play Through in 2026. DXY Index is -1.4% since KO's last earnings April 29 and -9.8% YTD. As such, we (and we believe investors) had been hoping that USD moderation could provide a tailwind to 2025 earnings relative to expectations. While the company did lower the impact to top-line to -1% to -2% for 2025, on EPS the headwind didn't move much lower, now -5% from -5% to -6% before. CFO Murphy said, "While we recognize there's recently been some favorable currency movements, we hedge much of our developed markets and some of our developing market exposure and will take time to see the full benefits. We will continue to utilize a disciplined hedging strategy that provides greater certainty for decision-making." Looking ahead, management is likely to provide an initial outlook for currency impact for 2026 in October with 3Q25 results (in-line with recent precedent) and as of now it appears that FX could be a tailwind to results, which by our count would be only the third time in the past fifteen years where FX has been a benefit to EPS growth (2011 and 2021 were both modest benefit to EPS).
- Reiterated 2025 OSG and Refined EPS Guidance Slightly Higher on FX. KO reiterated guidance for OSG +5-6% (vs. consensus into the print +5.7%) and raised comparable EPS growth guidance to +3% (vs. +2-3% prior and consensus into the print +3.1%), which implies 2025 EPS of about $2.97 (vs. $2.94-$2.97 prior and consensus into the print $2.97). KO adjusted its currency-neutral EPS growth outlook to +8% (vs. +7-9% prior) and also lowered FX headwind to EPS to -5% (vs. -5% to -6% prior). The company now expects structural changes to be a -1% headwind to both top-line and EPS growth (vs. "slight headwind" prior). The company also continued to note, "the company's operations are primarily local, however, it is subject to global trade dynamics which may impact certain components of the company's cost structure across its markets. At this time, the company expects the impact to be manageable." Below the line, KO continues to expect an effective tax rate of 20.8% and for interest expense to be elevated in 2025. KO reiterated expectations for free cash flow (non-GAAP, excluding fairlife contingent consideration payment of $6.1B) of $9.5B based on cash flow from operations (non-GAAP, excluding fairlife contingent consideration payment of $6.1B) of $11.7B and capital expenditures of $2.2B. The company is also expecting transition tax payments of $1.2B in 2025 (paid in 2Q). For 3Q25, the company is expecting FX to be a -1% headwind to the top-line and -5% to -6% headwind to the bottom-line. The company also noted that it expects concentrate shipments to run slightly behind unit case volumes in 3Q25 and that there will be an extra calendar day in 4Q25 (there were two fewer calendar days in 1Q25).
- Summary of Estimate Changes. We continue to model for OSG of +5.7% but now model for concentrate shipments +0.7% (from +1.2% prior) and price/mix +5.0% (from +4.5% prior). Our 2025 EPS estimate also remains unchanged at $2.99 (+3.7% YOY).
- 2Q25 Recap. KO reported 2Q25 comparable EPS of $0.87, which exceeded JPMe/consensus $0.84/$0.83 by +3.4%/+4.8%. Upside vs. our estimates was driven by stronger-than-expected gross margin (+$0.02 vs. JPMe) and lower-than-expected SG&A (+$0.01 vs. JPMe). Organic sales growth (OSG) of +5% was ~in-line with JPMe +5.1% and exceeded Consensus Metrix (CM) +4.5%, or +5% on a unit case volume basis vs. JPMe/CM +5.5%/+5.5%. Unit case volumes fell -1% (vs. JPMe/CM +0.4%/flat) while concentrate shipments were also -1% (vs. JPMe/CM -0.1%/-

0.9%). Price/mix was +6% (vs. JPMe/CM +5.2%/+5.5%). Gross margins of 62.2% were +79 bps YOY (underlying +160 bps YOY, FX -90 bps YOY, structural changes +10 bps YOY) and came in ahead of JPMe/consensus 61.5%/61.4%. Operating expense ratio of 27.5% was -114 bps favorable YOY and compared to JPMe/consensus 28.0%/28.1%

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

Coca-Cola (Overweight; Price Target: $79.00)

Investment Thesis

We have an Overweight rating on KO shares. We think Coca-Cola is well positioned for sustainable organic growth toward the top end of its long-term 4-6% range. KO has undergone a deep positive transformation over the past few years by improving its sales portfolio, refranchising and consolidating bottling assets globally, setting up new systems and procurement in the U.S., shifting focus from volume to value growth, and transitioning senior management, all of which give us confidence in the underlying fundamentals of the business. While the multi-billion-dollar dispute with the IRS and FX are overhangs, we think these are already reflected in the share price.

Valuation

Our Dec 2026 price target is $79, based on 22.7x P/E (in-line KO's 10-year average multiple) on our 2027 EPS estimate of $3.48, as top-line momentum, better ability to pass through cost inflation, and defensive nature in an uncertain macro backdrop should sustain KO's relative valuation premium and more than offset concerns around GLP-1 and potential tax liability. Our $79 price target implies ~13% upside potential in the next approximately 17 months plus a ~3% dividend yield. We think the aforementioned overhangs are contemplated in the current valuation, creating favorable risk/reward.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

Downside risks to our Overweight rating and price target include (1) economic weakness leading to material pressure in the away-from-home channel; (2) uncertainty around potential impact of GLP-1 drugs on demand longer term; (3) margin de-leverage because of inflationary headwinds and/or volume losses; and (4) increasingly unfavorable FX movements – all of which could drive further negative earnings revisions.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
