

FX Technical Update

EUR bounces from trend support against the USD and tries to bottom above longer-term range support versus the GBP

- EUR/USD scored an initial rebound from the Oct 2023 trend line after triggering a momentum divergence buy signal. In our view, a sustained break above 1.087-1.0873 resistance would confirm a trend reversal. We see the 1.0935 Sep 38.2% retrace as an initial target zone. Look for the 1.1001-1.1042 cluster of levels to mark a material resistance zone.
- EUR/GBP forms a potential short- and medium-term bullish trend reversal from near longer-term range support at 0.8202-0.8301. Tactically, bulls need to sustain the break above 0.8355 to keep the ball. The first material zone of resistance sits near 0.85.
- After exceeding favored resistance near 150-151, USD/JPY decelerates again near the 153.505 Jul 61.8% retrace and Aug-Sep pattern objective. Other resistance rests at the 155.37-155.79 spring-summer pattern breakdown. Closes below 150.335-151.42 are needed to confirm a downside trend reversal, in our view.
- USD/CNH triggered a short-term momentum divergence sell signal as the pair continues to struggle with 7.14-7.146 Fibonacci retracement resistance. The medium-term setup is still clouded by the bullish whipsaw of the 7.06 area. Key tactical support remains at 7.046-7.097 for now. The next overhead resistance levels rest at 7.1804-7.1914.

Figure 1: EUR/USD bounces from 2023-2024 trend line support after triggering a momentum divergence buy signal. The technical setup suggests that there is further room to rebound in the fourth quarter, but that the move is likely to be countertrend in nature ahead of further weakness into 2025

EUR/USD rebounds from 2023-2024 trend line support

EUR/USD staged an initial rebound from support that includes the 1.077 Aug low, 1.0761 Oct 2023 trend line, and 1.073 Apr 78.6% retrace after the price action triggered on of our momentum divergence buy signals that indicates potential trend exhaustion and an increased probability for mean reversion (Figure 2). The referenced trend line was formed after the Apr 2024 price low and then successfully held as support in Jun. Tactically, bulls need to sustain the initial break above the 1.087-1.0873 200-day moving average and cluster of hourly chart price highs to keep the agenda. Next resistance rests at the 1.0935 Sep 38.2% retrace, then 1.1001 Sep 11 low and 1.1042 Sep 61.8% retrace. We suspect those higher levels will present a material amount of resistance for a rebound. On the downside, a resumption of the monthlong selling pressure and break through noted support levels would turn our attention to the 1.068 Jul low and 1.0601 Jun low.

Figure 2: EUR/USD scored an initial rebound from the Oct 2023 trend line after triggering a momentum divergence buy signal. In our view, a sustained break above 1.087-1.0873 resistance would confirm a trend reversal. We see the 1.0935 Sep 38.2% retrace as an initial target zone. Look for the 1.1001-1.1042 cluster of levels to mark a material resistance zone.

EUR/GBP attempts to base above longer-term range support

EUR/GBP staged a tentative rebound as that cross tries to form a bottom pattern on both the daily and weekly time frames and above key longer-term range support at 0.8202-0.8301 (Figure 3). The recent bear trend deceleration as the market approached the noted support zone triggered momentum divergence buy signals on both the daily and weekly time frames. The latter is illustrated in the chart below and suggests the potential for a more lasting change in the trend that started with the 0.9269 Sep 2022 reversal in the upper end of the longer-term range. Tactically, bulls need to sustain closes above the 0.8355 recent pattern breakout to keep the agenda. A rally would gain further momentum with a break above the 0.8436-0.8467 Sep-Oct highs for the 0.85 Aug 61.8% retrace. That level also roughly aligns with the Feb 2023 trend line and 2H23/1H24 range lows. In our view, a break above that resistance would confirm a more lasting trend reversal and set the cross up for a broader retracement of the multi-quarter bear trend. Even if the current bounce fails to gain traction, we think subsequent weakness will find buying interest near the longer-term range support levels noted above.

Figure 3: EUR/GBP forms a potential short- and medium-term bullish trend reversal from near longer-term range support at 0.8202-0.8301. Tactically, bulls need to sustain the break above 0.8355 to keep the ball. The first material zone of resistance sits near 0.85.

USD/JPY rally stalls near the 153.505 Jul 61.8% retrace and Aug-Sep pattern objective

After the surprising USD/JPY squeeze through key and our favored resistance in the 150- and 151-handles, the pair decelerated again. This time, the short-term momentum divergence signal triggered as the market approached the 153.505 Jul 61.8% retrace and Aug-Sep pattern objective (Figure 4). The signal and potential bullish trend reversal in the Treasury market sets the stage for at least some mean reversion over the near-term. However, next week's headline risk and the recent rally through the key 2022-2024 chart inflection near 151 provides for a very low conviction in a near-term forecast. In our view, a sustained break below 150.335-151.42 tactical support is needed to confirm a downside trend reversal. Key support below that now rests at the 145.89-147.17 early-fall pattern breakout and 50-day moving average. On the upside, a continued rally would turn our attention to the 155.37-155.79 early-summer top pattern breakdown.

Figure 4: After exceeding favored resistance near 150-151, USD/JPY decelerates again near the 153.505 Jul 61.8% retrace and Aug-Sep pattern objective. Other resistance rests at the 155.37-155.79 spring-summer pattern breakdown. Closes below 150.335-151.42 are needed to confirm a downside trend reversal, in our view.

USD/CNH triggers a short-term sell signal at the 7.14-7.146 resistance zone

USD/CNH continues to trade sideways near the Figure 57.14-7.146 Fibonacci retracement confluence, with the past week's price action having triggered a momentum divergence sell signal (Figure 5). That signal favors short-term mean reversion to lower prices. Despite the signal, we have low conviction in a near-term forecast given next week's headline risk and the recent bullish whipsaw above the 7.06 area. On a tactical basis, a slide through 7.046-7.097 support levels is needed to confirm a downside trend reversal. Next support rests at the 7.067 Sep 61.8% retrace. The early-fall trend reversal unfolded above medium-term support at the 6.9527 Jan 2023 61.8% retrace. On the upside, key resistance sits at the 7.1804 Jul 61.8% retrace, 7.1914 Aug rebound high, and 7.2003 200-day moving average. A move through there would turn our attention back to broader range resistance in the 7.30s.

Figure 5: USD/CNH triggered a short-term momentum divergence sell signal as the pair continues to struggle with 7.14-7.146 Fibonacci retracement resistance. The medium-term setup is still clouded by the bullish whipsaw of the 7.06 area. Key tactical support remains at 7.046-7.097 for now. The next overhead resistance levels rest at 7.1804-7.1914.

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst’s, or the Research Analyst’s team’s, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock’s expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts’ coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst’s coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan’s Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
