Moving Higher with No Slowdown in Sight

Another strong beat and raise with no signs of an air pocket as strong Hopper demand through July hands off to Blackwell which is ramping earlier than expected.

A strong beat and raise directly in line with our checks further emphasizes the strong desire for AI investments across the broader ecosystem. Prior concerns of air pockets between product transitions should be all but settled as demand for H-series remains robust through the July quarter, bridging the gap to the Blackwell launch, which sounds like it will be ramping earlier than expected (company cited Q3 vs prior expectations of Q4). The B-series ramp will start at B100s and then transition towards GB200 and NVL72 systems through next year. Elsewhere, the company sounded positive noting all other segments are expected to grow Q/Q. In all, this is yet another strong print that should settle most near-term concerns and overall reaffirms a prolonged ramp for the AI ecosystem.

 Price Target USD 1,200.00

Why OVERWEIGHT?

We are OW as the company has long-term sustainable growth led by a large lead in GPUs for AI in DC, with further Edge opportunities (Autos, robots, etc.) and a competitive moat around a large portion of the market.

Upside case USD 1,300.00

Our upside case of $1300 is based upon 42x our upside CY25E non-GAAP EPS of $31.25, which assumes larger TAM for AI in the DC, higher Networking attach, and higher GMs.

Downside case USD 800.00

Our downside case of $800 is based upon 35x our downside CY25E non-GAAP EPS of $23.00, which assumes a correction of AI spending in the DC, a slower Auto ramp and pricing/share pressure.

Upside/Downside scenarios

DC Compute Strength Drives FQ1 Beat: April revenue was ahead at $26.0B (+18% Q/Q, vs. St. $24.7B) driven by Data Center, which was ahead at $22.6B (+23% Q/Q, vs. St. $21.1B) on continued demand for the Hopper computing platform for LLM, recommendation engines and generative AI applications. Within DC, Compute revenue was $19.4B (+29% Q/Q) on strong Hopper demand and Networking was $3.2B (-5% Q/Q) due to the timing of supply. Additionally, cloud providers were mid-40% of DC revenue in April. Gaming came in slightly above at $2.65B (-8% Q/Q vs. Street at $2.62B), but down sequentially on seasonally weak GPU sales for laptops. Auto also came in above at $329M (+17% Q/Q vs. St. $292M) due to strength in AI Cockpit and self-driving platforms. ProViz missed at $427M (-8% Q/Q, vs. St. $477M) as a result of weaker desktop workstation GPUs. Lastly, OEM/Other came in below at $78M (-13% Q/Q vs. Street $86M). GMs beat at 78.9% (vs. St. at 77.0%) driven by lower inventory charges and favorable component costs. Opex came in lower at $2.5B (vs. Street at $2.6B) but was up Q/Q due to higher compensation and benefits. All-in, this netted EPS above at $6.12 (vs. Street $5.65). Additionally, NVDA announced a ten-for-one forward stock split that will be effective June 10th.

All Segments Propel FQ2 Beat: Guides July revenue ahead to $28B (+8% Q/Q vs. St. $26.8B) on broad based strength. We model Data Center up +8% Q/Q with 8% Q/Q growth in both Networking and Compute. We model Gaming up 7%, Auto up 6%, ProViz up 3%, and OEM & Other up 1% Q/Q. Guides GM roughly in-line at 75.5% but lower sequentially due to the absence of the benefits from better component costs in prior periods. Guides opex slightly higher to $2.80B (vs. St. $2.78B), OIE to an income of $300M, and tax rate to 17%. All in, this nets an implied EPS of $6.21 above Street at $6.03. Looking further, GMs are expected in the mid-70% range for the year and opex is expected to grow in the low-40% range for FY25.

Our coverage analysts use a relative rating system in which they rate stocks as Overweight, Equal Weight or Underweight (see definitions below) relative to other companies covered by the analyst or a team of analysts that are deemed to be in the same industry (the "industry coverage universe").

In addition to the stock rating, we provide industry views which rate the outlook for the industry coverage universe as Positive, Neutral or Negative (see definitions below). A rating system using terms such as buy, hold and sell is not the equivalent of our rating system. Underweight - The stock is expected to underperform the unweighted expected total return of the industry coverage universe over a 12-month investment horizon.

Rating Suspended - The rating and target price have been suspended temporarily due to market events that made coverage impracticable or to comply with applicable regulations and/or firm policies in certain circumstances including where the Investment Bank of Barclays Bank PLC is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or strategic transaction involving the company.

Industry View

Environmental, Social, and Governance (‘ESG’) Related Research: There is currently no globally accepted framework or definition (legal, regulatory or otherwise) of, nor market consensus as to what constitutes, an ‘ESG’, ‘green’, ‘sustainable’, ‘climate-friendly’ or an equivalent company, investment, strategy or consideration or what precise attributes are required to be eligible to be categorised by such terms. This means there are different ways to evaluate a company or an investment and so different values may be placed on certain ESG credentials as well as adverse ESG-related impacts of companies and ESG controversies. The evolving nature of ESG considerations, models and methodologies means it can be challenging to definitively and universally classify a company or investment under an ESG label and there may be areas where such companies and investments could improve or where adverse ESG-related impacts or ESG controversies exist. The evolving nature of sustainable finance related regulations and the development of jurisdiction-specific regulatory criteria also means that there is likely to be a degree of divergence as to the interpretation of such terms in the market. We expect industry guidance, market practice, and regulations in this field to continue to evolve. Any references to ‘sustainable’, ‘sustainability’, ‘green’, ‘social’, ‘ESG’, ‘ESG considerations’, ‘ESG factors’, ‘ESG issues’ or other similar or related terms in this document are as used in our public disclosures and not to any jurisdiction-specific regulatory definition or other interpretation of these terms unless specified otherwise.
