F3Q25 (Oct) Results: Big beat, measured raise

NVDA delivered another trademark beat/raise, albeit with the shape a bit different than we expected with the F3Q "beat" being larger than expected and the F4Q "raise" a bit smaller. Regardless of the shape, the aggregate of the two quarters yields impressive growth and positive revisions to our estimates, with the company importantly highlighting that its Blackwell ramp is ahead of schedule vs. its prior target of "several billions of revenue" in F4Q and more thereafter (also disarming recent concerns of power issues). Beyond the Data Center strength, the company also calmed fears of Blackwell-related GM pressures, citing expectations for a return to ~75% GMs in 2H of FY26 (CY25). Overall, NVDA continues to illustrate its technological dominance in AI accelerators, with its lead seemingly growing vs competition with the introduction of Blackwell. As a result, our CY25/26 PF EPS ests rise by an avg of ~+15%. While NVDA's execution remains strong and its growth impressive in nearly any historical context, we believe much of this goodness is reflected in its share price. Consequently, based on our sector-wide move to CY26-based valuation multiples, we raise our P/T to $140 (P/E of 27x of FY27/CY26E of $5.20), but maintain our Hold rating.

Positives outweigh negatives

Positives: 1) NVDA is seeing no sign of slowing demand for its AI compute solutions, with demand for Blackwell products in particular characterized as "staggering". As a result, mgmt indicated it was ahead of plan vs. its prior target of delivering "several billions" of Blackwell revenue in F4Q (Jan), augmenting continued demand for Hopper. 2) While Gross Margin concerns had arisen on its prior call (Blackwell ramp is initially dilutive), NVDA sees these headwinds as temporary, with GMs potentially returning to the mid-70s level by 2H FY26 (CY25). 3) NVDA's cash returns remain robust, with the company buying back $11b in shares in F3Q alone (DBe ~$30b+ in buybacks by the end of FY25). Negatives: 1) While NVDA's qtr/guide was still healthier than our expectations (revenues +5% ahead of DBe in aggregate), the mix was more heavily skewed towards F3Q than F4Q. Thus, the F4Q (Jan) guide was only "in-line" with investor expectations, a deviation from prior quarters. 2) While demand for Hopper-based systems remained robust in Oct-qtr, Networking revenues fell -15% q/q (unclear why, as most key networking products grew q/q). With this said, NVDA noted it expects a reacceleration of this business going forward (up q/q in F4Q). 3) NVDA is once again seeing supply constraints limiting revenue potential, and is working with its hundreds of components suppliers to alleviate bottlenecks (in both DC & Gaming).

Big beat, slight raise

NVDA reported Oct-qtr revenues of $35.1b (+17% q/q, +94% y/y), well above guidance/DBe of $32.5b/$33.1b and the Street at $33.3b. By end market, Data Center revs beat our expectations (+$1.9b above DBe). Gaming revs were in-line with our expectations (+14% q/q vs DBe +15% q/q), Proviz revs of $486m (+7% q/q vs. DBe flat q/q) were above our expectations, Auto revs of $449m (+30% q/q vs. DBe +10% q/q) were above our ests, and OEM/Other revs of $97m were in-line with our ests at $97m. PF GMs came in at 75.0%, vs. guidance 75.0%, and PF Opex came in at $3.05b vs. guidance/DBe $3.00b. All told, Oct-qtr EPS totaled $0.81, above DBe/Street at $0.74/$0.74 on better revs & a slightly lower tax rate. NVDA guided revenues to $37.5b (+7% q/q), slightly above DBe/Street at $37.2b/$37.1, yet slightly below buyside hopes. Non-GAAP GM was guided to 73.5% (vs. DBe 73.0%), with non-GAAP OpEx guided to $3.40b (vs. DBe $3.23b), yielding implied non-GAAP EPS of ~$0.82, in-line with DBe/Street at $0.82/$0.82. All told, our CY25E revs/EPS move to $190b (+46% y/y)/ $4.25 from $173b (+37% y/y)/ $3.85 prior, while our CY26E rev/EPS ests move to $226b (+19% y/y)/ $5.20 from $195b (+13% y/y)/ $4.40.

Maintain Hold rating, raise P/T to $140

On higher estimates, we raise our P/T to $140 and maintain our Hold rating. Our P/T is based on a multiple of ~27x our CY26 EPS estimates (vs. ~30x CY25E EPS prior), as we shift our target valuation methodologies to CY26 ests across our coverage. This multiple marks a premium to semi peers to reflect fast growth and strong earnings momentum, but still represents a discount to the co's 5-year average. Upside/downside risks include better-/worse-than-expected Gaming, Data Center, Automotive, and OEM/Other revenue growth, higher-/lower-than-expected profitability, macro, design win/product execution, and market share shifts. Positive/negative company-specific risks include market share gains/losses in Graphics and Compute & Networking businesses, competitive and pricing pressure, product execution, and impacts to profitability from investments.

Equity rating dispersion and banking relationships

Equity Rating and Dispersion Key

The Equity Rating Dispersion Chart depicts the following:

The proportion of recommendations that are rated "buy", "sell" and "hold" over the previous 12 months. This is shown for securities issued in the stated region e.g. "Europe Universe". See rating definitions below. This is represented by the "Companies Covered" bars in the chart. The percentage value displayed above the bar is the proportion as a percentage. E.g. 50% above the "buy" / "Companies Covered" bar means that 50% of DB's equity research covered companies over the past 12 months have a "buy" rating.

Next to each of the three respective bars showing the proportion of "buy", "sell" and "hold" recommendations we provide two additional bars to show:

- The proportion of "buy", "sell" or "hold" recommendations where Deutsche Bank and or/Affiliates provided MIFID Investment or Ancillary Services in the past 12 months. This is represented in the "MIFID Investment and Ancillary Services" bar. The percentage value displayed above the bar shows the proportion of Companies Covered with the given rating where DB has also provided MIFID Investment and Ancillary Services in the past 12 months. E.g. 50% above the "Cos. w/ MIFID Investment and Ancillary Services" bar means 50% of the Companies Covered with the rating stated have also received MIFID Investment and Ancillary Services from DB.

- The proportion of "buy" (or "sell" or "hold") recommendations where Deutsche Bank and or/Affiliates has provided Investment Banking services in the past 12 months for which it has received compensation. The percentage value displayed above the bar shows the proportion of Companies Covered with the stated rating where DB has also provided Investment Banking services in the past 12 months. E.g. 50% above the "Cos. w/ Investment Banking relationship" bar means 50% of the Companies Covered with the rating stated also have an Investment Banking Relationship with DB.

Buy: Based on a current 12- month view of TSR, we recommend that investors buy the stock.

Sell: Based on a current 12-month view of TSR, we recommend that investors sell the stock.

Hold: We take a neutral view on the stock 12-months out and, based on this time horizon, do not recommend either a Buy or Sell.

TSR = Total Shareholder Return. Percentage change in share price from current price to projected target price plus projected dividend yield Newly issued research recommendations and target prices supersede previously published research.

Additional Information

The information and opinions in this report were prepared by Deutsche Bank AG or one of its affiliates (collectively 'Deutsche Bank'). Though the information herein is believed to be reliable and has been obtained from public sources believed to be reliable, Deutsche Bank makes no representation as to its accuracy or completeness. Hyperlinks to third-party websites in this report are provided for reader convenience only. Deutsche Bank neither endorses the content nor is responsible for the accuracy or security controls of those websites.

If you use the services of Deutsche Bank in connection with a purchase or sale of a security that is discussed in this report, or is included or discussed in another communication (oral or written) from a Deutsche Bank analyst, Deutsche Bank may act as principal for its own account or as agent for another person.

Deutsche Bank may consider this report in deciding to trade as principal. It may also engage in transactions, for its own account or with customers, in a manner inconsistent with the views taken in this research report. Others within Deutsche Bank, including strategists, sales staff and other analysts, may take views that are inconsistent with those taken in this research report. Deutsche Bank issues a variety of research products, including fundamental analysis, equity-linked analysis, quantitative analysis and trade ideas. Recommendations contained in one type of communication may differ from recommendations contained in others, whether as a result of differing time horizons, methodologies, perspectives or otherwise. Deutsche Bank and/or its affiliates may also be holding debt or equity securities of the issuers it writes on. Analysts are paid in part based on the profitability of Deutsche Bank AG and its affiliates, which includes investment banking, trading and principal trading revenues.

Opinions, estimates and projections constitute the current judgment of the author as of the date of this report. They do not necessarily reflect the opinions of Deutsche Bank and are subject to change without notice. Deutsche Bank provides liquidity for buyers and sellers of securities issued by the companies it covers. Deutsche Bank research analysts sometimes have shorter-term trade ideas that may be inconsistent with Deutsche Bank's existing longer-term ratings. Some trade ideas for equities are listed as Catalyst Calls on the Research Website (<https://research.db.com/Research/>), and can be found on the general coverage list and also on the covered company's page. A Catalyst Call represents a high-conviction belief by an analyst that a stock will outperform or underperform the market and/or a specified sector over a time frame of no less than two weeks and no more than three months. In addition to Catalyst Calls, analysts may occasionally discuss with our clients, and with Deutsche Bank salespersons and traders, trading strategies or ideas that reference catalysts or events that may have a near-term or medium-term impact on the market price of the securities discussed in this report, which impact may be directionally counter to the analysts' current 12-month view of total return or investment return as described herein. Deutsche Bank has no obligation to update, modify or amend this report or to otherwise notify a recipient thereof if an opinion, forecast or estimate changes or becomes inaccurate. Coverage and the frequency of changes in market conditions and in both general and company-specific economic prospects make it difficult to update research at defined intervals. Updates are at the sole discretion of the coverage analyst or of the Research Department Management, and the majority of reports are published at irregular intervals. This report is provided for informational purposes only and does not take into account the particular investment objectives, financial situations, or needs of individual clients. It is not an offer or a solicitation of an offer to buy or sell any financial instruments or to participate in any particular trading strategy. Target prices are inherently imprecise and a product of the analyst's judgment. The financial instruments discussed in this report may not be suitable for all investors, and investors must make their own informed investment decisions. Prices and availability of financial instruments are subject to change without notice, and investment transactions can lead to losses as a result of price fluctuations and other factors. If a financial instrument is denominated in a currency other than an investor's currency, a change in exchange rates may adversely affect the investment. Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future results. Performance calculations exclude transaction costs, unless otherwise indicated. Unless otherwise indicated, prices are current as of the end of the previous trading session and are sourced from local exchanges via Reuters, Bloomberg and other vendors. Data is also sourced from Deutsche Bank, subject companies, and other parties.

The Deutsche Bank Research Department is independent of other business divisions of the Bank. Details regarding our organizational arrangements and information barriers we have to prevent and avoid conflicts of interest with respect to our research are available on our website (<https://research.db.com/Research/>) under Disclaimer.

Macroeconomic fluctuations often account for most of the risks associated with exposures to instruments that promise to pay fixed or variable interest rates. For an investor who is long fixed-rate instruments (thus receiving these cash flows), increases in interest rates naturally lift the discount factors applied to the expected cash flows and thus cause a loss. The longer the maturity of a certain cash flow and the higher the move in the discount factor, the higher will be the loss. Upside surprises in inflation, fiscal funding needs, and FX depreciation rates are among the most common adverse macroeconomic shocks to receivers. But counterparty exposure, issuer creditworthiness, client segmentation, regulation (including changes in assets holding limits for different types of investors), changes in tax policies, currency convertibility (which may constrain currency conversion, repatriation of profits and/or liquidation of positions), and settlement issues related to local clearing houses are also important risk factors. The sensitivity of fixed-income instruments to macroeconomic shocks may be mitigated by indexing the contracted cash flows to inflation, to FX depreciation, or to specified interest rates - these are common in emerging markets. The index fixings may - by construction - lag or mis-measure the actual move in the underlying variables they are intended to track. The choice of the proper fixing (or metric) is particularly important in swaps markets, where floating coupon rates (i.e., coupons indexed to a typically short-dated interest rate reference index) are exchanged for fixed coupons. Funding in a currency that differs from the currency in which coupons are denominated carries FX risk. Options on swaps (swaptions) the risks typical to options in addition to the risks related to rates movements.

Derivative transactions involve numerous risks including market, counterparty default and illiquidity risk. The appropriateness of these products for use by investors depends on the investors' own circumstances, including their tax position, their regulatory environment and the nature of their other assets and liabilities; as such, investors should take expert legal and financial advice before entering into any transaction similar to or inspired by the contents of this publication. The risk of loss in futures trading and options, foreign or domestic, can be substantial. As a result of the high degree of leverage obtainable in futures and options trading, losses may be incurred that are greater than the amount of funds initially deposited - up to theoretically unlimited losses. Trading in options involves risk and is not suitable for all investors. Prior to buying or selling an option, investors must review the 'Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options', at <https://www.theocc.com/company-information/documents-and-archives/publications>. If you are unable to access the website, please contact your Deutsche Bank representative for a copy of this important document.

Participants in foreign exchange transactions may incur risks arising from several factors, including the following: (i) exchange rates can be volatile and are subject to large fluctuations; (ii) the value of currencies may be affected by numerous market factors, including world and national economic, political and regulatory events, events in equity and debt markets and changes in interest rates; and (iii) currencies may be subject to devaluation or government-imposed exchange controls, which could affect the value of the currency. Investors in securities such as ADRs, whose values are affected by the currency of an underlying security, effectively assume currency risk.

Unless governing law provides otherwise, all transactions should be executed through the Deutsche Bank entity in the investor's home jurisdiction. Aside from within this report, important conflict disclosures can also be found at <https://research.db.com/Research/> on each company's research page. Investors are strongly encouraged to review this information before investing.

research refers to any particular financial product recipients of the research should consider any product disclosure statement, prospectus or other applicable disclosure document before making any decision about whether to acquire the product. In preparing this report, the primary analyst or an individual who assisted in the preparation of this report has likely been in contact with the company that is the subject of this research for confirmation/clarification of data, facts, statements, permission to use company-sourced material in the report, and/or site-visit attendance. Without prior approval from Research Management, analysts may not accept from current or potential Banking clients the costs of travel, accommodations, or other expenses incurred by analysts attending site visits, conferences, social events, and the like. Similarly, without prior approval from Research Management and Anti-Bribery and Corruption ("ABC") team, analysts may not accept perks or other items of value for their personal use from issuers they cover.

Additional information relative to securities, other financial products or issuers discussed in this report is available upon request. This report may not be reproduced, distributed or published without Deutsche Bank's prior written consent.

Backtested, hypothetical or simulated performance results have inherent limitations. Unlike an actual performance record based on trading actual client portfolios, simulated results are achieved by means of the retroactive application of a backtested model itself designed with the benefit of hindsight. Taking into account historical events the backtesting of performance also differs from actual account performance because an actual investment strategy may be adjusted any time, for any reason, including a response to material, economic or market factors. The backtested performance includes hypothetical results that do not reflect the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings or the deduction of advisory fees, brokerage or other commissions, and any other expenses that a client would have paid or actually paid. No representation is made that any trading strategy or account will or is likely to achieve profits or losses similar to those shown. Alternative modeling techniques or assumptions might produce significantly different results and prove to be more appropriate. Past hypothetical backtest results are neither an indicator nor guarantee of future returns. Actual results will vary, perhaps materially, from the analysis.

The method for computing individual E,S,G and composite ESG scores set forth herein is a novel method developed by the Research department within Deutsche Bank AG, computed using a systematic approach without human intervention. Different data providers, market sectors and geographies approach ESG analysis and incorporate the findings in a variety of ways. As such, the ESG scores referred to herein may differ from equivalent ratings developed and implemented by other ESG data providers in the market and may also differ from equivalent ratings developed and implemented by other divisions within the Deutsche Bank Group. Such ESG scores also differ from other ratings and rankings that have historically been applied in research reports published by Deutsche Bank AG. Further, such ESG scores do not represent a formal or official view of Deutsche Bank AG. It should be noted that the decision to incorporate ESG factors into any investment strategy may inhibit the ability to participate in certain investment opportunities that otherwise would be consistent with your investment objective and other principal investment strategies. The returns on a portfolio consisting primarily of sustainable investments may be lower or higher than portfolios where ESG factors, exclusions, or other sustainability issues are not considered, and the investment opportunities available to such portfolios may differ. Companies may not necessarily meet high performance standards on all aspects of ESG or sustainable investing issues; there is also no guarantee that any company will meet expectations in connection with corporate responsibility, sustainability, and/or impact performance.
