Dear clients,

Happy New Year! While there's already a lot of crypto topics to discuss, we're starting 2024 with a look back at the market predictions we made in 2023.

One of the goals of Coinbase Research is to help our institutional clients shape their investment theses and refine their decision making processes. Although we don't publish price forecasts, we do take views on market direction, trading risks, and key themes on both the micro and macro levels – whether that's protocol changes to a network or interest rate decisions from the Federal Reserve. To hold ourselves accountable, our report this week assesses the predictions we made in our “2023 Crypto Market Outlook” based not only on their outcomes but on our stated rationales.

Looking ahead, we've had an auspicious start to the year as evidenced by the round-trip in crypto markets and sell off in US tech stocks. We remain cautiously optimistic on bitcoin over the next few weeks, per the comments in our 2024 Crypto Market Outlook. In our view, the collective approval of multiple spot bitcoin ETF applications in the US could represent an important paradigm shift for the asset class that remains underappreciated. As a result, we don't believe that this will be the “buy the rumor, sell the fact” event that some have been warning.
